

Introduction

This book focuses on What is a Life Partner?, How Do You Find Your Life Partner?, How Do You Know When You Found Your Life Partner?, and What Does It Feel Like to Interact With Your Life Partner? I also describe spiritual, emotional, intellectual, and physical oneness between life partners.

The difference between life partners and any other relationship is the level of compatibility. Life partners are one with each other spiritually, emotionally, intellectually, and physically. The relationship between them continues even after death.

For life partners to achieve their highest level of compatibility, they need to do a spiritual practice. The reason for this is that their energy vibration needs to be at a certain level before they can become one with each other on all other levels.

Life partners can be thought of analogically as “hands.” One life partner is the left hand, and the other life partner is the right-hand. When the two hands are brought together, they form a harmonic, balanced, symmetry. This symmetry represents their love and oneness.

The definition of a “life partner” is someone who is like a mirror image. That is, everything about you is reflected in your life partner, and everything about your life partner is reflected in you. For example, the spiritual love that you have for all life forms or the spiritual truths that you seek will also be found in your life partner. Although life partners' soul energies originate from the same divine source, when their soul energies vibrate at the same frequency, they become life partners.

The way to maintain the same frequency of vibration in both energies is for each partner to be genuinely in love with the life partner's soul, core qualities as a human being, emotional and intellectual capabilities, lifestyle, and personality. Physical appearance is also involved. Disharmony arises between life partners when their soul energies vibrate at different frequency levels.